TRIBAL PET ORDINANCE

The Native Village of Kluti-Kaah (NVKK) requires that all pet owners residing within tribal jurisdiction are to keep their animals on their own property. Loose animals are a nuisance and can become dangerous. We would like to ensure the safety of everyone residing in Copper Center. This applies to animals that are loose and destroying public/private/tribal property, digging through dumpsters and becoming violent with people/other animals. If any pet owners aren't in compliance with this ordinance, the following actions will take place.

1st Warning is a Verbal Warning: informing the owner that their animal is loose/dangerous, will be done in person or over the phone.

2nd Warning is a Written Warning: this letter is to inform the pet owners that they are not compliant with the Tribal Ordinance and will include a copy of the ordinance. This will be delivered by mail or hand delivered.

If both written and verbal warnings are ignored, the Tribal Court can issue a fine of $50 that must be paid within 30 days. If the pet owner is still not in compliance with this ordinance, NVKK may issue an additional fine of the same amount.

If there is any damage to tribal/private/public property there may be an additional grievance fee after the damage is assessed. These fines may be collected in payments that are decided upon between the pet owner and Kluti-Kaah.

If the animal is a constant nuisance and/or danger to the community the council will decide in the best interest of the animal and the safety of the residents of Copper Center. That may include bringing the animal to a nearby shelter, which will be at the owner's expense (including mileage and any fees the shelter has). The animal may also be humanely euthanized by a licensed professional or by an appointed tribal member.

Definitions:

Pets: any domesticated animal.

Dangerous animal: any animal that becomes violent.

Tribal Jurisdiction: As stated in Alaska State Law Section 03.55.070. that Tribal Jurisdiction includes recognized tribal boundaries and an additional 10-mile radius.
